

The Landlady Before Reading The Characters

There are two principal characters in the story 'The Landlady' - the landlady herself, and Billy Weaver, a young man arriving in an unfamiliar city and looking for accommodation. Billy is 17 years old, optimistic and innocent. The landlady is middle aged with a friendly and welcoming manner; but does she have a sinister motive?

The story draws on similarities with certain European folk tales which start with young children being taken in by apparently well-meaning adults ('Hansel and Gretel' or 'Babes in the Wood' being a prime example). Is the house where Billy sees the sign 'Bed and Breakfast'

'The Landlady' is a short story about a young man who arrives in an unfamiliar city one evening and is looking for a place to stay. He seems irresistibly attracted to a private house with yellow flowers in the window next to a notice: BED AND BREAKFAST enchanted? Does the landlady have magical, witch-like powers? Or is it all in the imagination?

Billy Weaver

Billy Weaver is introduced right at the beginning of the story, and we learn the following about him immediately:

"Billy was seventeen years old. He was wearing a new navy-blue overcoat, a new brown trilby hat, and a new brown suit, and he was feeling fine. He walked briskly down the street. He was trying to do everything briskly these days. Briskness, he had decided, was the one common characteristic of all successful businessmen. The big shots up at the Head Office were absolutely fantastically brisk all the time. They were amazing."

"He had never been to Bath before. He didn't know anyone who lived there. But Mr Greenslade at the Head Office in London had told him it was a splendid town. 'Find your own lodgings,' he had said, 'and then go along and report to the Branch Manager as soon as you've got yourself settled."

brisk: active; lively big shots: important, successful colleagues Bath: City of Roman origins in the west of England

QUESTION: If you were seventeen years old and being sent to do some work for a company in an unfamiliar town, would you expect the company to organise accommodation for you in advance or not?

The Landlady

The landlady herself - we never discover her name - is clearly described in the story. The physical description paints a fairly detailed picture.

"She had a round pink face and very gentle blue eyes." "She seemed terribly nice. She looked exactly like the mother of one's best school-friend welcoming her into the house to stay for the Christmas holidays." "He noticed that she had small, white, quickly moving hands and red finger-nails." Make a list of the adjectives used above which give us a positive feeling for the landlady. Can you find any adjectives that give us a negative feeling about her? An observation by Billy Weaver Billy gets an immediate impression that, nice as she is, the landlady is also a little bit strange. This is how he thinks of her after two minor incidents: "The old girl is slightly dotty, Billy told himself. But at five and sixpence a night, who gives a damn about that?" "Now, the fact that his landlady appeared to be slightly off her rocker didn't worry Billy in the least. After all, she was not only harmless - there was no question about that - but she was obviously a kind a generous soul." In the passages above, which two expressions mean that the landlady is a little bit crazy, according to Billy?		"She was about forty-five or fifty years old, and the moment she saw him she gave him a warm welcoming smile."
