

HMOs are unique components in human breastmilk contributing to a range of beneficial effects especially on gut health in preterm infants

LOE 2

Differences in HMO profiles may be associated with differences in the rate of necrotising enterocolitis

LOE 2

HMOs are different in structure and function to other oligosaccharides

LOE 1

There are no RCTs of providing additional HMO supplements in preterm infants

LOE 2