

Step – Assessing learning in online lessons

Task - Answers

- Why is there more of a focus on formative assessment than summative assessment in online lessons?

Conducting summative assessment in online lessons can be difficult and also a waste of time and money (for learners/parents).

- How might formative assessment take place?

Listening to learners during a lesson, gathering answers from all learners, monitoring breakout rooms, looking at quiz responses and out of class tasks, and setting short progress tests or quizzes. Using self-assessment.

- How might summative assessment take place?

We can ask learners to complete tasks out of class or use software which locks a learners screen for in-class summative tests.